

Josh Zelonis is a Field CTO and Evangelist for Palo Alto Networks where he works closely with organizations to help them adapt their architecture, policies, and processes to stay ahead of evolving threats and limit the potential impact of incidents. As a former Forrester analyst and cybersecurity tech founder, Josh has spoken at major conferences around the world and published on subjects ranging from security analytics, cyber intelligence, vulnerability management, SOC operations, and incident response. Above all, he prides himself on a mission to secure the data of the people we're entrusted to protect.